

The Outstanding Ethnography in Education Book Award has been established to acknowledge and honor a recent, book-length, academic publication, published in the past three years, that draws on ethnographic inquiry into education, broadly defined. A committee of scholars will evaluate submissions based upon three criteria: (a) rigor and innovative use of ethnographic methods; (b) contribution and depth of scholarship; and (c) potential for transformative impact on future educational research or practice. Questions may be directed to Dr. Posecznick at alpos@upenn.edu.

DEADLINES & DECISIONS: All entries and submissions must be received by May 1 of even years (2024, 2026, etc.). The winner will be recognized at the meeting of the Ethnography in Education Research Forum in February of odd years (2025, 2027, etc.).

BENEFITS FOR THE WINNING TITLE: The winning author will receive an invitation to speak at the Ethnography in Education Research Forum, where they will also receive an honorary award. Cost of travel, registration fees, and housing expenses to the conference will be covered by the University of Pennsylvania's Graduate School of Education. The title may also be displayed and available for sale at the Ethnography in Education Research Forum Meeting.

Winning titles along with cover scans, and publisher information may appear on the Ethnography in Education website. Publishers of winning titles may be authorized to use the Outstanding Ethnography in Education Book Award notation on book jackets, and on other promotional materials.

ELIGIBILITY

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY. The book may have been published anywhere in the world but, for consideration, must be available in English. Manuscripts in press are not eligible. Nominated books should be newly published and must have been released with a copyright date within three years of the deadline (for example, books submitted for consideration by May 1, 2024 must have copyright dates of 2024, 2023 or 2022). There are no associated fees for consideration. Revised editions or edited collections with multiple authors are not eligible for the award.

NOMINATIONS. A letter of nomination must be written by a scholar or practitioner in the field. Authors should not write their own letters of nomination.

DEADLINES. The final deadline to receive submissions is May 1 of even years.

SUBMISSION LIMITS. There is no limit to the number of books an author or publisher may submit. No entry will be ineligible because its author has previously won the Outstanding Book Award or any other award.

AWARD COMMITTEE. An award committee made up of scholars in relevant fields shall judge the nominations and select the winner. Members of the committee may not write letters of nomination. Titles authored by members of the committee are not eligible for the award.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

ONLINE ENTRY FORMS. One entry form should be submitted online for each title. Submit the online entry form, available at <https://www.gse.upenn.edu/cue/forum>. The entry form is detailed below.

LETTER OF NOMINATION. A letter, written by a scholar/practitioner in the field, should outline the book's contributions to the field, with a focus on: (a) rigor and innovative use of ethnographic methods; (b) contribution and depth of scholarship; and (c) potential for transformative impact on future educational research or practice. Authors should not write their own letters of nomination. Although the author may upload the letter of nomination as part of the online entry form, note that confirmation e-mails will be sent to the nominator.

CURRICULUM VITAE. The author's most recent CV should be submitted through the online entry form.

NUMBER OF COPIES. Four (4) copies of each nominated title should be submitted. Books must be in final finished form. Soft or hardbound versions are acceptable. Manuscripts, proofs, galleys or e-books are not acceptable. Please send copies to: Dr. Alex Posecznick, Chair, Forum Book Award Committee, Graduate School of Education, University of Pennsylvania, 3700 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104. Submitted copies will not be returned.
