

NETWORKED FOR LITERACY

Saturday, October 1, 2016

8:00am – 3:00pm

Graduate School of Education, University of Pennsylvania
3700 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA

The Celebration of Writing and Literacy provides a space for educators to share how literacy shapes practice, students, schools, and communities. This year's event is focused on connecting with and across Philadelphia teacher networks. Join us for a day of idea sharing, community, and celebration. Reenergize practice and be inspired.

REGISTRATION:

$10 for pre-registration
$15 day-of registration
PhilWP TCs with paid dues are FREE
Coffee and breakfast provided

Most sessions are technology-infused.
Please bring a laptop or mobile device.

KEYNOTE: Bob Fecho,
Professor of English Education,
Teachers College, Columbia University

WORKSHOPS INCLUDE:

- Writing and reading for social justice
- Teaching science and literacy using games
- Preparing and supporting college-ready writers

Visit www.gse.upenn.edu/philwp to register

